Twenty-Ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time—Year A

22 October 2017

First Reading

Is 45:1-4-6

Thus says the Lord to his anointed, to Cyrus, whom he has taken by his right hand to subdue nations before him and strip the loins of kings, to force gateways before him that their gates be closed no more: It is for the sake of my servant Jacob, of Israel my chosen one, that I have called you by your name, conferring a title though you do not know me. I am the Lord, unrivalled; there is no other God besides me. Though you do not know me, I arm you that men may know from the rising to the setting of the sun that, apart from me, all is nothing.

Second Reading

1 Thes 1:1-5

From Paul, Silvanus and Timothy, to the Church in Thessalonika which is in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ; wishing you grace and peace from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. We always mention you in our prayers and thank God for you all, and constantly remember before God our Father how you have shown your faith in action, worked for love and persevered through hope, in our Lord Jesus Christ. We know, brothers, that God loves you and that you have been chosen, because when we brought the Good News to you, it came to you not only as words, but as power and as the Holy Spirit and as utter conviction.

Gospel

Mt 22:15-21

The Pharisees went away to work out between them how to trap Jesus in what he said. And they sent their disciples to him, together with the Herodians, to say, 'Master, we know that you are an honest man and teach the way of God in an honest way, and that you are not afraid of anyone, because a man's rank means nothing to you. Tell us your opinion, then. Is it permissible to pay taxes to Caesar or not?' But Jesus was aware of their malice and replied, 'You hypocrites! Why do you set this trap for me? Let me see the money you pay the tax with.' They handed him a denarius, and he said, 'Whose head is this? Whose name?' 'Caesar's' they replied. He then said to them, 'Very well, give back to Caesar what belongs to Caesar – and to God what belongs to God.'

Antiphons, Readings & Reflections

Entrance Antiphon Cf. Ps 16:6,8

To you I call; for you will surely heed me, O God; turn your ear to me; hear my words. Guard me as the apple of your eye; in the shadow of your wings protect me.

Responsorial Psalm:

(R) Give the Lord glory and honour.

1. O sing a new song to the Lord, sing to the Lord all the earth. Tell among the nations his glory and his wonders among all the peoples. (R.)
2. The Lord is great and worthy of praise, to be feared above all gods; the gods of the heathens are naught. It was the Lord who made the heavens. (R.)
3. Give the Lord, you families of peoples, give the Lord glory and power, give the Lord the glory of his name. Bring an offering and enter his courts. (R.)
4. Worship the Lord in his temple. O earth, tremble before him. Proclaim to the nations: 'God is king.' He will judge the peoples in fairness. (R.)

Gospel Acclamation Phil 2:15. 16

Alleluia, alleluia!

Shine on the world like bright stars; you are offering it the word of life. Alleluia!

Communion Antiphon Cf. Ps 32:18-19

Behold, the eyes of the Lord are on those who fear him, who hope in his merciful love, to rescue their souls from death, to keep them alive in famine.

Next Week's Readings:

Ex 22:20-26

1 Thes 1:5-10

Mt 22:34-40

Reflections

Historical Context: What's in a face?

The question of coinage was a problematic one for first century Jews. The tradition—grounded in the commandments given to Moses on Mt Sinai—forbade the use of 'graven' or carved images. The people of Israel took this prohibition very seriously and did not portray the human face in artwork of any kind. Roman coins were minted with the face of the emperor on them and it was compulsory that taxes be paid with Roman coin. This helps to explain the role of the Temple money-changers who converted the Roman coin into Temple coin that could be used for religious purposes.

Scriptural Context: Jesus & the Pharisees.

The gospel of Matthew tends to treat the Pharisees rather harshly. In fact they had more in common with Jesus' style of teaching than other religious groups of the time and some have suggested that Jesus may even have been quite closely associated with the Pharisees. The role of the Pharisees was to interpret the Torah—the Law—for everyday people. They were teachers and preachers who often had a group of disciples who were their followers. The community in which the gospel of Matthew was written regarded the Pharisees harshly because they saw Jesus—not the Pharisees—as the rightful interpreter of the Law .

Different View: A Simple Question?

This gospel passage is sometimes interpreted as Jesus' endorsement of the Christian responsibility to state authorities. It has been interpreted as affirming the obligation to pay taxes and participate in the processes of government. In fact, Jesus neatly avoided the direct question put to him and never gave a response to the question of paying taxes. Rather he made the question a much broader one and reminded people that their first obligation was to God, not the state. It is an excellent example of the need for critical interpretation of scripture. A simple, literal reading of this text leads us to drawing simple, literal conclusions about whether or not we should be paying taxes.

For God or Caesar

In July 1962 a revolt was initiated by the Catholic Diocese of Goulburn against then government who decided to withdraw funding to catholic schools. The underlying principle the government then operating was that it does not have any responsibility to support religious formation of the people. The Catholic Church argued that they are entitled to their share of the tax to educate and form their children in the religious values and faith life. The Catholic Church won that fight. Government support for religious schools continue in our country till today.

Last Tuesday, delivering the inaugural PM Glyn lecture in Adelaide, former High Court judge Dyson Heydon stated that religious freedom is under threat from modern elites. (Ref CathNews 20 Oct. 17) The debate on whether the government has a responsibility to protect religious freedom to promote religious values or not is still continuing. Should the religious faith has any share in the welfare plans of the government is still ongoing in new forms. The debate on same sex marriage, assisted legal killing (Euthanasia) which is currently debated in Victorian parliament, and the move to compel priests to reveal confession secrets in court are actually debates on whether the government is the supreme authority over the people or not. Whilst the government are elected to provide the material welfare of all people of the country, matters that relate to meaning of life and glory to God are not be subjected to secular government. Such debates are nothing new. At the time of Jesus there was a debate between the Roman Imperialists (Herodians) and the religious Israelites. The Gospel of Matthew 22:15-21 reveals Jesus' response to it.

The trick question Jesus was asked is whether giving tax to Roman Emperor is right or not. If Jesus was to answer yes, they wanted to accuse him of lack of patriotism to Jewish religion which upheld the superiority of religious faith over the Roman Imperialism. If Jesus were to say not to give tax, that would have been a criminal offence against their emperor. But Jesus seeing through their intention, asked for a coin and asked what they see on the coin. It was clearly marked for Caesar with his image on it. So give it to him and give to God what is due to God. Unlike the Pharisees and the Herodians who thought the choice was only between theocratic society and fully imperial rule of the Rome, Jesus had a new approach. Money and related things are for the material welfare of the people and that is the responsibility of the government. But the religious matters are far more important and it is important to give glory to God. Yet these two need not exclude each other. A true faithful will see the relevance of both government and Religion.

The Challenge we have in our time is not to let our material affluence blind us to the importance of giving glory to God in our life. Our faith life matters and in fact it matters most. Yet it does not exclude our civil responsibilities.

Feasts & Memorials of the Week

Saturday— Sts Simon & Jude (Feast)

Simon "the Less" is also called "the Canaanite" and "the Zealot". Jude "(son) of James" (Luke 6:16; Acts 1:13) was traditionally thought to be the same person as Jude, brother of James and author of the letter of Jude, but may also be the one called "Thaddeus" (Matthew 10:3; Mark 3:18). A tradition has Simon and Jude preaching and being martyred in Persia. Honoured among the twelve apostles, the first followers of Christ.

Parish Notices

Berala helps a community worth dying for

They live in one of the wettest, most culturally isolated regions on earth. Now a Sydney parish is helping them out, writes David Ryan

A SYDNEY parish is digging deep to help perhaps the most remote Catholic community in the world.

The parishioners of St Peter Chanel & St Joseph in Berala are on a mission to help build St Francis Xavier primary school in the village of Tura, Meghalaya, India.

Dainital, nestled within a craggy mountain jungle, is a world away from the urban sprawl of Greater Sydney.

Berala parish priest Father Thomas Kurniawan, recalls the origins of the unlikely connection:

"When I was on holidays I invited my cousin, Father George, to maintain his links with the people."

Father George, a priest in the Tura diocese, where Dainital is located, ministered to the Garo people.

The Diocese of Tura was formed in 1973 and has been growing exponentially ever since.

Today, the Garo are 90 per cent Christian.

During his stay in Australia, Father George inspired the Berala parish to help the Garo.

Father Thomas remarked: "Father George is a great missionary. He is very adventurous and always relies on God."

The parish aims to raise $30,000 towards a school which will house three classrooms, a computer room, a library, a science lab and faucets for drinking soon. The ancient name Meghalaya translates from Sanskrit as "abode of the clouds".

Stories of previous missionaries being sent with no destination to Fr George, above, who enlisted the Parish of Berala in helping the Garo people.

The area attracts the most amount of rain on earth (annual rainfall is 3200mm).

The Garo call themselves achik mande meaning "hill people".

Terrain is steep and prevents roads or industry from developing wild beasts still roam with impunity. The Garo are unique in their language; linguistically closer to Mandarin than Hindi. Genetically their closest relatives are the Chinese.

Despite this, the Catholic Church has battled geography to preach to the Garo. According to the 2011 Indian Census, Garo literacy is very low.

In recent years, literacy has increased from 50 to 65 per cent—no doubt due to the efforts of the Church.

Father George wrote that: "By providing for a primary education we will be providing a better future for the people who look up to the Church with great hope for the future of their children."

$10 will secure a brick for the school. For more information, email:
