CORPUS CHRISTI

3 JUNE 2018

First Reading

Ex 24:3-8

Moses went and told the people all the commands of the Lord and all the ordinances. In answer, all the people said with one voice, 'We will observe all the commands that the Lord has decreed.' Moses put all the commands of the Lord into writing, and early next morning he built an altar at the foot of the mountain, with twelve standing-stones for the twelve tribes of Israel. Then he directed certain young Israelites to offer holocausts and to immolate bullocks to the Lord as communion sacrifices. Half of the blood Moses took up and put into basins, the other half he cast on the altar. And taking the Book of the Covenant he read it to the listening people, and they said, 'We will observe all that the Lord has decreed; we will obey.' Then Moses took the blood and cast it towards the people. 'This' he said 'is the blood of the Covenant that the Lord has made with you, containing all these rules.'

Second Reading

Heb 9:11-15

Now Christ has come, as the high priest of all the blessings which were to come. He has passed through the greater, the more perfect tent, which is better than one made by men's hands because it is not of this created order; and he has entered the sanctuary once and for all, taking with him not the blood of goats and bull calves, but his own blood, having won an eternal redemption for us. The blood of goats and bulls and the ashes of a heifer are sprinkled on those who have incurred defilement and they restore the holiness of their outward lives; how much more effectively the blood of Christ, who offered himself as the perfect sacrifice to God through the eternal

Spirit, can purify our inner self from dead actions so that we do our service to the living God.

He brings a new covenant, as the mediator, only so that the people who were called to an eternal inheritance may actually receive what was promised: his death took place to cancel the sins that infringed the earlier covenant.

Gospel

Mk 14:12-16, 22-26

On the first day of Unleavened Bread, when the Passover lamb was sacrificed, his disciples said to Jesus, 'Where do you want us to go and make the preparations for you to eat the passover?' So he sent two of his disciples, saying to them, 'Go into the city and you will meet a man carrying a pitcher of water. Follow him, and say to the owner of the house which he enters, "The Master says: Where is my dining room in which I can eat the passover with my disciples?" He will show you a large upper room furnished with couches, all prepared. Make the preparations for us there.' The disciples set out and went to the city and found everything as he had told them, and prepared the Passover.

And as they were eating he took some bread, and when he had said the blessing he broke it and gave it to them. 'Take it,' he said 'this is my body.' Then he took a cup, and when he had returned thanks he gave it to them, and all drank from it, and he said to them, 'This is my blood, the blood of the covenant, which is to be poured out for many. I tell you solemnly, I shall not drink any more wine until the day I drink the new wine in the kingdom of God.'

WE ARE WHAT WE EAT

“We are what we eat” is a well-known expression. Obesity is attributed to unhealthy eating. Choosing to eat the right stuff can even cure many of the physical problems. Eating habits could be symptomatic of some of the mental conditions like depression. But the right manner of eating can create friends and happiness. Family ties are strengthened by family meals. Business lunches play a big role in the commercial world. Welcomes and rejections are determined by whether or not the guests accept invitation to meals. The meal we decide to eat is not only a nourishment for our bodies, but in many ways, also defines who we are.

Jesus, before his death on the cross, provided a meal to his disciples which would signify ‘who they are’ for ages to come. He blessed bread at his last supper and said ‘This is my body broken for you. Take and eat of it’. He virtually told the disciples that by eating this bread and drinking the blessed wine, they become part of the Body of Christ. Jesus asked his disciples to continue to do this sharing of ‘blessed and broken bread and blessed wine’ thereafter. This was a call for them to continue to be part of his body. What the disciples did on Sundays thereafter, we too do now. We too become one with the Body of Christ each Sunday with great devotion. This act of ‘coming into union with Christ’ is called the Holy Communion. Since Christ is Holy, we who become part of his body also are Holy.

There may be a tendency to equate holiness with perfection. Therefore we might think that a person needs to be without any sin or malice to be holy. No human being can be perfect, yet we can be holy. Holiness is not perfection. Holiness is our communion (connection) with the Body of Christ. As many and varied we are, coming into union with Christ, we become the one Body of Christ. Christ is holy. Therefore we are the Holy Body of Christ the world will see and experience. Gathered together as partakers of the Body of Christ, we are called the Holy Catholic (universal) Church. If Jesus Christ was the embodiment of compassion, forgiveness, and human dignity in his time on earth as a human being, now we collectively are to be the embodiment of compassion, justice, forgiveness, and human dignity in our world. Thus essentially we become the Holy Body of Christ.

We become what we eat. Eating the blessed bread as the Body of Christ, and drinking the blessed wine as the Blood of Christ, we become the Holy Body of Christ. Thank God for such a profound identity God has blessed us with.

REFLECTIONS ON MARK 14:12-16, 22-26

Historical Context. Covenant.

Covenant is a recurring element throughout the Old Testament writings. A covenant is a formal agreement between two or more parties. In the Biblical context, covenants were made between God and God’s people. The first covenant, although not described as such, is the covenant between God and Adam—each promising certain things. After the failure of this covenant, God renewed the covenant promise to Noah and symbolised it with the rainbow. Later covenants were again struck with Abraham, Moses and David—each time initiated by God to give the people another chance to be faithful to their relationship.

Have You Thought? You are what you eat.

Many religious traditions have rules about what can or cannot be eaten or in what manner certain foods should be eaten. The two with which we tend to be most familiar are the Jewish kosher and Islamic halal restrictions. Both share common requirements about the way in which meat is to be slaughtered and drained of blood. Kosher food laws also separate the cooking and eating of meat and dairy products. Certain foods are regarded as being ‘unclean’ and consequently are forbidden: pork and shellfish are both forbidden to Jews. Prohibitions on foods are a statement about relationship with God and relationship with the world. They often have basic health standards as their basis but have taken on religious significance.

Gospel Focus. Words of Institution.

The words of the gospel passage in which Jesus takes bread and wine and blesses them will be familiar. They are the words used at the consecration of the bread and wine during the Mass. The words and actions of Jesus at the Last Supper are regarded as instituting the celebration of the Eucharist. Jesus took an act that was familiar to the Passover meal and gave it a new meaning and a new significance for his followers. What had been a memory of escape from slavery in Egypt became an ongoing reminder of Christ’s continued presence in the Eucharist and in the Eucharistic community.

FEASTS & MEMORIALS OF THE WEEK

Friday, 8 June —The Most Sacred Heart of Jesus

The Sacred Heart is a devotion to Jesus’s physical heart as the representation of divine love for humanity. It stresses the central Christian concept of loving and adoring Jesus. Also in the Sacred Heart is the salvation of the world and lasting peace. Devotion to the Sacred Heart, encouraged by medieval mystics and promoted by St Gertrude, St Margaret, Mary Alacoque, St John Eudes and others, represents a devotion to Jesus in his human nature, in particular referring to the heart as the seat of the emotions.

Traditionally, school kids make contribution to St Vincent de Paul to observe this feast.

Saturday, 9 June —The Immaculate Heart of the Blessed Virgin Mary

This commemoration celebrates Mary as the model of ready acceptance of God’s will in all life’s circumstances. It was instituted by Pius XII for the octave day of the Assumption and was moved by Paul VI in 1969 to the Saturday after the feast of the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

Just for Laughs

A four-year-old was in church when the wine and communion wafers were passed out. He was very interested in this, and started to get up. His mother leaned over and told him that he was not old enough to partake in the Communion.

Later, when the collection plate came by, he ignored it. His mother again leaned over and tried to coax the nickel out of him. He steadfastly refused, stating, "If I can't eat, I'm not paying."

SEQUENCE

Vigil 5PM Mass

Come, behold, the bread of angels,
this our strength on pilgrims' way.
For the children God is giving
manna for our bread each day.
Now the sign of Isaac telling
Christ has conquered on this day.
Hear our prayers, O kindly Shepherd,
be for us true living bread.
Grant us peace in all our doings,
to our resting place be led,
forth with all the saints now dwelling,
We the body, you the Head.

Sunday 8AM Mass

Behold the bread of angels, sent
For pilgrims in their banishment,
The bread for God's true children
meant,
That may not unto dogs be given;
Oft in the olden types foreshadowed;
In Isaac on the altar bowed,
And in the ancient paschal food,
And in the manna sent from heaven.
Come then, good Shepherd, bread
divine,
Still show to us thy mercy sign;
Oh, feed us still, still keep us thine;
So we may see thy glories shine
In fields of immortality;
O thou, the wisest, mightiest, best,
Our present good, our future rest,
Come, make us each thy chosen
guest,
Co-heirs of thine, and comrades blest
With saints whose dwelling is with thee.

Sunday 10AM Mass

See, the bread of Angels given to the pilgrim who has striven; truly bread
for us from heaven, which to dogs
may not be cast.
Christ, the former types fulfilling,
Isaac, bound, a victim willing, Pascal
Lamb, it's lifeblood spilling, manna
sent in ages past.
O Good Shepherd, bread from heaven, Jesus, mercy now be given.
All our foes away be driven, 'til our eyes behold the vision in the kingdom of the blest.
O almighty and all knowing, here on earth such food bestowing, by your mercy ever flowing, lead us, with your saints, now showing us to heaven as your guest.
